

Publication charges policy

PSSR has been managed and run by a non-profit trust titled as ORIENTS SOCIAL RESEARCH CONSULTANCY (OSRC). There are many journals whose publishing costs and all other relevant expenses are covered by other sources, like sponsoring a society, organization other groups, think tanks, so don't charges publication charges. There is no any source of income or financial assistance from any other organization or government entity to sponsor the PSSR expenses. PSSR is striving and heeding to be indexed in SSCI (JCR-Master list) very soon. But it is very gigantic task that there is no social sciences journal in Pakistan which is indexed in SSCI. We are supposed to meet up the international and global academia rather to focus on regional or local. Hence to meet such stander in financial and academic scope of authors, PSSR recommends the very nominal publication charges.

Publication charges are bit unusual in Pakistan by the local journals. Consequently, the authors are not used to the assistances. Therefore, various circles regarding the article charges following by PSSR having speculated many queries, ambiguities and misperceptions. In this perspective the Board of trustees assigned a special task to the editorial Board of PSSR to come up with a publication charges policy encircling the worldwide major publication houses, research group and research houses. Furthermore, the board was directed to pay special attention by giving relief as much as possible to the Ph. D scholars and young researchers from Pakistan while drafting the policy.

Introduction

Publications are not without costs. Subscription journals manage the cost by fee to access the contents. An open access content is freely accessible and available; therefore, the costs are recoup by through publication policy. Journals utilize a variety of ways to generate the income require the journal publishing costs, peer reviewers and advisory body's dues.

Funding sources

Although the authors are responsible for making or arranging payment of the publication charges in most cases they can rely on their institutions and funders for financial support. These bodies can cover publication charges in a variety of ways for example by establishing Open Access (OA) fund, making part of their Journal funding. In order to support sustainable open access publishing there are many approaches to pay the due charges. These charges are usually had to pay by the authors' institutions or research funders. But where will go the author or researcher having no facility or a proper funder. Cogent OA (Taylor and Francis- Informal Group) pioneered a new module of financial contribution to pay the publication charges, titled as "Freedom Articles Publishing Charges". It allows authors to choose how much to contribute towards the publication charges of their research in open access journals. PSSR operates freedom APC model only for Ph. D, MS/M. Phil scholars. The said model was approved for the purpose to encourage the research in Pakistan.
